

Day of the Dead

The Dia de Muertos, which means Day of the Dead, is a festival to remember friends and family members who have died.

Skulls made from sugar are painted with bright patterns, then left at the graves of dead family members.

These figures are from a famous Mexican painting.

People paint skulls on their faces and dress up in costumes like this for the festival.

